FOR PEACE! exhibition at Glasgow Women's Library

Your last chance to visit this.

Featuring campaigns from the last 100 years, the exhibition combines original printed materials, banners, badges, handicrafts, photos, audio interviews and video footage.

<https://womenslibrary.org.uk/event/for-peace/>

The exhibition opened on 17th April and runs until 5th July.

Rastko Novaković gave an interview to Quakers about the exhibition and how he came to Quakers:

COLLECTIONS

We are grateful to those Friends who have been able to make donations to Glasgow Meeting funds by bank transfer. For anyone who would like to do this, the details are: Glasgow Quaker Meeting, Sort code: 80-07-24, Account number 00384645. Please be sure to use the Reference: Donation.

Collections can also be made in person in the Meeting House.

Special Collections

The Collection on Sunday 29 June was for Quaker Service (Northern Ireland) and was introduced by Michael Hutchinson.

“Quaker Service is a charity in Northern Ireland that has been translating Quaker values of peace, equality, truth, and simplicity into action since the 1970s. Our work is a visible demonstration of the values of Quakerism, providing support for people in Northern Ireland going through difficult times.”

“At Quaker Service, we deliver practical, social, and emotional support services that value and empower people just where they are. We believe that by offering support and resources, we can play our part in reducing violence, suffering, and disadvantage in our community. Whether it's providing services for families or prisoners, our goal is to make a positive impact and contribute to a more inclusive and compassionate society in Northern Ireland.”

Quaker Service is involved in Quaker Connections, a volunteer programme based at Maghaberry Prison, where families visiting prison and people in prison are supported through befriending and practical support services. Services are currently available at all the prison establishments in Northern Ireland

Quaker Service is currently re-establishing itself after the closure of its long standing project, Quaker Cottage in Belfast, and is currently seeking other ways to connect communities in Belfast. Supporting them now will be a big boost to their morale as they seek to re-develop the work for and between the differing communities in Belfast through a new Quaker Service hub based at Frederick Street Meeting House, where Quaker Service originally began. That is now working.

Quaker Service is a UK registered charity. See the website at www.quakerservice.com/

Donations after the collection day can be made by bank transfer to Michael who will forward them. Let Michael know you have made a donation.

(Just Giving doesn't list Quaker Service)

Or, if you prefer to be anonymous, through the website above or post to QUAKER SERVICE - 541 LISBURN ROAD, BELFAST, BT9 7GQ.

The collection on Sunday 27 July will be for a street homelessness charity introduced by Ben Blain.

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's servant, 10th Commandment.

According to a secular Jew (and he should know) for 'servant' read 'slave' says Yuval harari who has written several books on the subject. Abraham was a slave owner which is why Paul was so ambivalent about slavery. Paul was clearly a misogynist who made wives 'obedient' to their husbands; this is also a form of slavery. Men are not superior to their wives, in fact they are inferior in many ways with their predisposition of violence in their nature. Thich Nhat Hahn tells them to 'tame the tiger inside'. Thomas Merton described this Buddhist monk to be 'closer to me than a brother.' if that is not an endorsement then I am currently wasting my time!

We create our own prisons in what we refer to as 'the mind', or, as our Buddhist friends more accurately call it, 'Monkey mind'.

The truth will make you free,
The birds never run out of sky,
The fish never run out of sea.

'Behold the lilies' (the Created world)
