

SOUTH EDINBURGH MEETING

August 2020

MEETINGS FOR WORSHIP

We are not holding Meetings for Worship in any of our usual locations at present. We don't expect an early return to our meeting place at the Open Door, but watch for news of this and other Quaker locations.

25+ Friends each week have been joining our meetings via Zoom, every Sunday 10.30 am. Instructions in emails.

Some Friends have also been meeting informally online on Thursday afternoons. Details again in email.

Martin Burnell or David Somervell are able to answer Qs about how to use Zoom to join us.

SPECIAL COLLECTION

In August is for Quaker Social Action, 'taking practical action against poverty since 1867'. Alison Burnley will speak to this. There is a 'Donate' button and more information on their website, <https://quakersocialaction.org.uk>

QUAKER EVENTS

Not many Quaker events are scheduled for August, when usually the city is thronged with visitors and performers. But this year the city has an eerie quietness (left).

Tom Shakespeare's Swarthmore Lecture 'Openings to the infinite ocean: A Friendly offering of hope' is being live-streamed on Zoom at 7.30 pm on Sat 1 Aug. There's an additional heading 'Searching for hope in the era of Coronavirus'. www.woodbrooke.org.uk/learn/about/swarthmore-lecture for more info and to join.

The following online events are organised from Edinburgh Central Meeting, but South Ed Friends are very welcome. Please email for login details, rachel.frith@waitrose.com

Singing Group – via Zoom on Tue 4 Aug

Online coffee – bring your own to an online conversation, 10.30-12 on Thur 6 and 20 Aug.

Book group – will discuss Cities by Italo Calvino on Sun 23 Aug at 12.30.

Thank you to Phil and team

Do you remember what it used to be like?

From the archives of Children's Meeting, an account from a different era.

In meeting today

The doorkeeper came in and her seat squeaked

In the top floor flat opposite, a woman hung washing
Humming

At the window of the flat below, a man with no shirt tackled last night's washing up
Radio 1 playing

A seagull cried

A dog barked

A friend spoke of decay and renewal

A train went by

A stomach rumbled (really loudly)

A man smiled excitedly into the distance

Someone's eyes welled up but didn't quite make tears

My leg jerked

Someone spoke about real friendship

The clock ticked

The children came in

Hands were shaken

The notices were read

We spoke over tea and coffee

We went home

LOCKDOWN ACTIVITIES

WALKING

The world's first school for the deaf at Dumbiedykes.

You're allowed out now, so could go by this unexpected historical fragment, just outside the Holyrood Park boundary 200 hundred yards South West of Our Dynamic Earth. Also reachable by following the Innocent Railway right to its city end, and continuing on the same line straight North past the Engine Shed, down Braidwood Gate and into Dumbiedykes. Tall stone wall to the right with small, high commemorative plaque just as you hit road.

Read about its remarkable history and location in an excellent blog post by historian Chelsea Sambells, mentioning its famous visitors and international influence, at <https://bit.ly/39vN3HO>

There are more good insights into this and wider Deaf History, on Wikipedia. Start with Thomas Braidwood, and British Sign Language, then find more further links than you have time for.

READING

"The first one that died sure unnerved me. I had to go to the nurses' quarters to cry it out. The next three weren't so bad." From a letter home sent by 18 year old Lutiant LeVoye, who volunteered to nurse sick soldiers in Washington DC during the influenza pandemic of 1918. Someone whose new experiences of adult life happened during a crisis. Dark mixed with mundane, courage with fear, learning coping mechanisms. <https://bit.ly/2ZYsG2K>

Tim Cresswell's Plastiglomerate. Our own Tim published a new book of poetry. Hear samples at timcresswell.net or on Twitter, @CresswellTim

WATCHING: short

Love Story. A lovely, wordless, 7-minute love story in yarn-based animation. Anushka Naanayakkara won a BAFTA for it in 2017. Technically amazing, and she conveys so much feeling with just wool, music, and a camera. <https://vimeo.com/381319795>

Climate change Science is over 100 years old. Its history is concisely and engagingly brought to life in this 5 minute animation from BBC Ideas. Eunice Foote may have been the first to express the effects of carbon dioxide clearly: 'An atmosphere of that gas would give our earth a high temperature' (1865) <https://youtu.be/gnw3Ly7c-zM>

A homeless life, Lily by herself <https://vimeo.com/370683081> Evenly told and without self-pity. 10 min short. There's an interview with the director Giulia Gandini at <https://bit.ly/3hfiPLF>

LONGER: Scotland's uncomfortable slavery past, and what can We do.

Nuanced discussions on statues and slavery from the University of Edinburgh 'Historians on Dundas and Slavery' with John Cairns, Stephen Mullen, Melanie Newton: <https://edin.ac/32kjtMz> and from Edinburgh World Heritage (Olivia Kanyike, Geoff Palmer, Lisa Williams, M Newton) at <https://youtu.be/eEJ3BsmcnEU>

Via Roisin Armstrong, a pointer to two lists of Anti-racism resources: <https://bit.ly/2ADrE1M> and (aimed particularly at white people and parents) <http://bit.ly/ANTIRACISMRESOURCES>
Details of our own reading and discussion group at <https://bit.ly/SESAMBLM>
